Bill works at a big city airport for a major airline. He's a mechanic who, after a number of years, is starting to become bored with what he is doing. One day he is at work on the landing gear of a 737. But he was thinking all the while that he wished he was doing something else. After the project was completed, he punched his card and went home.

The next morning, he gets up and hears on the news that a plane had problems with take off--something about the front wheels collapsing. The plane veered off the run way and burst into flames. There were many injuries and one casualty. It was felt that the accident was due to a mechanical glitch that maybe could have been avoided. The plane was part of the fleet of the airline that he worked for!

Bill gets nervous and begins to think that maybe that was the plane he was working on. During the news coverage, the head of the mechanics department, in an interview, said to a reporter, "We try to emphasize to our mechanics that they should repair each aircraft as if it was their first time. They should concentrate and remember that people's lives are in their hands."

Eventually Bill finds out that the plane that ran off the runway was not the one that he was working on. But the incident really shook him up. He began to see that there was something about the work that he did that went beyond him and whether or not he felt good about himself, or if he was making enough money, or whether or not he was bored. It was about other people. He had in his hands the welfare of others. What he did made people's lives safer.

How we see things is important. If you notice, there's a lot about seeing and blindness in our readings today. "Not as man sees does God see, because man sees the appearance but the Lord looks into the heart."

We can sometimes become our own worst enemy by how we view our personal situation.

Like the guy in the story. His scary experience forced him to look at the work he did in a different way---not just from his own perspective. What he was doing was important. But it wasn't something that he was seeing right in front of him.

Why do we do this? There are many reasons, I believe, but one of them can be because of our past experiences or how we might have been raised. But God, at times, intervenes in our life to clear things up for us and give us a new perspective.

Sometimes, because of what we have been through, we become blind to certain things. Perhaps we have conditioned ourselves this way because we are trying to block a bad experience from our life. Are we the kind of person who sees only the darkness and never the light.

This leads me to another point: that one of the most serious types of blindness comes from selfishness. And that comes from asking the wrong question---What's in it for me? But Christ wants to purify us of self-absorption and self-deception. We come to eventually see that what we have received is for the benefit of others. Parents begin to see this as they raise their children, for example.

So, let's be careful about how we see our life and our situation. Let Jesus help you to see things the way that his Father wants you to see them. For many of us, we can receive a new lease on life if we let the light of Christ fill us rather than the darkness of our weakness and sins.

Join us Friday mornings after the 8:00 am Mass to pray the Divine Mercy Chaplet.

Our Chaplet is offered for all who are suffering.

MAKE THIS AN IMPACTFUL HOLY WEEK

PALM SUNDAY, PASSION SUNDAY

We remember Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem on a donkey which fulfills the prophecy from Zechariah. The pilgrims who came with Jesus were enthusiastic, spread their garments on the road where Jesus passed, waved tree branches and cried out, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest", recognizing him as their messianic king. We participate in the narrative of the Passion on this Sunday. — nregister.com

PASCHAL TRIDUUM

• HOLY THURSDAY—THE FEAST OF THE LORD'S SUPPER:

The commemoration of the Institution of the Eucharist at the Last Supper, when Jesus and his apostles gathered to celebrate Passover. Jesus also washed the feet of his apostles and commanded them to do for others as he has done for them.

• GOOD FRIDAY — CELEBRATION OF THE LORD'S PASSION: The anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ. We again partake in the reading of the Passion and also venerate the cross to show reverence to the instrument that was used to crucify Jesus. Through the Cross comes resurrection. We honor what Christ has done for us and are reminded to embrace the crosses in our own lives. The most sacred hours during Good Friday are from noon to 3:00, when Jesus was on the cross.

• HOLY SATURDAY — EASTER VIGIL IN THE HOLY NIGHT: This celebration tells the story of our salvation — from creation to resurrection and beyond. The Easter Vigil includes the lighting of the Easter Fire and Paschal Candle, the singing of the Exsultet (the Easter Proclamation), the expanded Liturgy of the Word that traces through Salvation History, the Liturgy of Initiation (candidates come into the Catholic Church), and the celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

Seven Last Words of Jesus

A prayer pamphlet will be available for participation and meditation.

THE SEVEN LAST WORDS

While on the Cross, Jesus speaks his last to us, sharing important messages that we can trust in to fully live out our lives. Join this service to dig deeper into the meaning of these words.

- ◆ Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.
- ◆ Today you shall be with me in paradise.
- ◆ Woman, behold your son... Behold your mother
- ◆ My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?
- ◆ I thirst.
- ◆ It is finished.
- ◆ Father, into your hands I commend my spirit.

This is what pleases Jesus best, according to St. Faustina

"Those who do not pray to Jesus in his Passion," wrote the poet priest Gerard Manley Hopkins, "pray to God, but scarcely to Christ." We pray with passion when we meditate on the Lord's Passion. How crucial to keep the cross at the center of our prayer. St. Leo the Great assures us that "through the cross the faithful receive strength from weakness, glory from dishonor, life from death." In her Diary, St. Faustina relates:

Jesus told me that I please him best by meditating on his sorrowful Passion, and by such meditation much light falls upon my soul. He who wants to learn true humility should reflect upon the Passion of Jesus. When I meditate upon the Passion of Jesus, I get a clear understanding of many things I could not comprehend before.

We can approach Christ's Passion in prayer with hope and great peace. In the words of Joseph Ratzinger, "What looks down at us from the cross is a goodness that enables a new beginning in the midst of life's horror." And St. John Paul II adds, "The cross is like a touch of eternal love upon the most painful wounds of man's earthly existence."

One practical way to meditate on the Lord's Passion is to pray before a crucifix, for "the human heart is converted by looking upon him whom our sins have pierced" (CCC 1432). The Imitation of Christ tells us, "If you do not know how to meditate on heavenly things, direct your thoughts to Christ's Passion and willingly behold his sacred wounds." Also, of course, is prayerfully meditating on the Sorrowful Mysteries of the Rosary.

St. Gregory of Nazianzen gives this counsel: "Worship him who was hung on the cross because of you, even if you are hanging there yourself." We do well in this since "it is only as a cross-bearer that one belongs to Christ" (A. Sertillanges).

Dominican Fr. Simon Tugwell encourages us:

It is the cross and only the cross that provides a constant point of reference in the chaos of our world, because there is all our poverty and helplessness and pain, all our yearning and all our mutual injustice, taken up into the stillness of God's everlasting love and made into the instrument and revelation of his unchanging will.
