Sanctuary Flowers

Flowers presented in Front of the Altar ~ for Anniversary of Mr. & Mrs. Anthony from Richard Anthony

Larry came from an intense family. His father, in particular, had been very strict growing up and in his disciplining could say some pretty mean things. His “method” of parenting would never “cut it” today. As a result of this, Larry did learn very important values such as a strong work ethic. But he always had a lack of confidence in himself, and an insecurity that would be with him all through his life.

Larry did marry a kind and gentle woman who was a good wife. He also had three wonderful children. On one occasion, Larry was hit by the realization of something that made him stop in his tracks. It happened this way: He and his 16 year old son, Jeffery, had had a rather heated argument about something that had happened at school. And Larry had said some pretty direct and perhaps unnecessary things to his son. And Jeffery just looked back at this father and said, “Why do you have to say such mean things to me? Do you ever think about what you’re saying? Just because you were treated that way as a kid, why couldn’t you learn not to do that to your own kids!”

Larry didn’t say anything at that moment, which was probably a good thing. But afterward he really thought about what his son had said. It was the truth. Larry was doing the same thing to his kids that had been done to him. It was now as obvious as the nose on his face. And yet, Larry felt something else here. He actually felt like this encounter was a freeing experience. And he knew that the first thing he should do would be to apologize to his son, and actually, to the rest of his family as well. And moving forward from that experience Larry was much more conscious of not letting his anger get the better of him. He remembered how he had felt as a kid when his father “let him have it”—was verbally abusive to him. He didn’t want that for his own children.

There are times when experiences, sometimes even difficult ones, can be freeing moments for us. And for the Apostles, Pentecost was one of those freeing experiences. They had been through the struggle of seeing Jesus’ crucified, and their own betrayal of what they had said they believed in. But now, through the power of the Holy Spirit they are set free. The regret of the past is gone and they are able to move forward with confidence in their faith in Christ. They now see clearly what their mission—their job—is. They are to preach the good news. They are to have a lively, joy-filled faith that would inspire others to join them. With their hearts opened to the power of the Holy Spirit, they are now filled with peace. They knew what their weaknesses are, but they also know that, despite these human weaknesses, Jesus had chosen them for a purpose. And through the Spirit they have received the grace to fulfill that purpose.

So, as we celebrate the freeing experience of the Apostles, ask for God’s grace to open your heart, so that you can respond with confidence to what the Lord is asking you to do in your own life. St. Catherine of Siena said, “We run untrammelled and unbound, for we have cut off and thrown aside every weight that might have impeded our running.”

Pray to the Spirit to, first, let you know what it is that is holding you back or weighing you down, and then let this same Spirit free you—give you a new lease on life, so you can have peace of mind and can truly “open up” to the guidance and “freedom” of the Holy Spirit.

June 19: St. Romuald, Abbot

After witnessing his father kill a relative in a duel over property, St. Romuald found refuge in a monastery to seek penance for his father and his own previous worldly sins. After 40 days in the monastery, Romuald felt called to become a monk of strict observance. He spent 10 years learning about the life of monks and the history of monasticism before then dedicating himself to traveling around Italy for the rest of his life founding and reforming monasteries. St. Romuald founded the Camaldolese, a religious order that combined elements of monasticism and eremitism (monasticism lived in solitude as a hermit), he died in 1027. “Better to pray one psalm with devotion and compunction than a hundred with distraction.” -St. Romuald catholicapostolatecenter.org

June 21: St. Aloysius, Religious

St. Aloysius Gonzaga was born as the eldest of seven children to a wealthy aristocratic family in Italy. At a young age, Aloysius developed a deep spiritual life and received his first communion from the future St. Charles Borromeo. As his spiritual life grew, he felt called to become a missionary. Against his father’s wishes, Aloysius renounced his inheritance and future positions of power in Italian society, and joined the Jesuits. While still studying to become a priest, a plague broke out in Rome, and Aloysius, along with his fellow Jesuit students, helped care for the sick. Aloysius became ill and died in 1591 when he was only 23 and still studying. He is remembered for his piety and dedication to the faith and is a patron saint of youth and students.

Manna Food Drive — Thank you!

Dear Monsignor Matz:

I want to thank your Parish so much for the Manna Drive on behalf of the Saint Katharine Drexel Food Pantry. Please thank all your parishioners who donated so much for us. The total amount of food collected and brought down was 1,133 pounds!

We have even more people coming into the pantry now and your donations allow us to meet the needs of our many clients, keeping them fed and nourished. We are so grateful that you and your parish keep us in your thoughts and prayers throughout the year.

We are really looking forward to continuing to work with you in the future. Our most sincere thanks from myself and the dedicated volunteers of the St. Katharine Drexel Food Pantry. Please know that we will be keeping you and your Parish in our thoughts and prayers.

Sincerely,

A Prayer for Wisdom — St. Thomas Aquinas

Give me, Lord God...

A watchful heart that no stray thought might distract me from you.

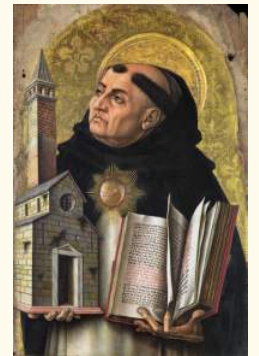

A noble heart that no unworthy affection might pull me down.

A just heart that will not be divided by any dark intention.

A strong heart that will not be broken by any tribulation.

A free heart that will not follow any violent desire.

A mind to know you, diligence to seek you, wisdom to find you, a life to please you, perseverance to wait faithfully for you and the trust that will finally embrace you. Amen.
