Sanctuary Flowers

Flowers presented in front of the Altar

In Memory of Marlene Anthony from Richard Anthony

Mark felt very frustrated that he wasn't able to get his act together these days. He knew what he was supposed to do, but he just didn't feel like doing it. Instead, he would waste time on things that were not all that important, or things that were more connected to hobbies that interested him. But eventually this would lead to use of the Internet, and when that happened eventually he would start to venture where he knew he shouldn't go. One thing would lead to another, and then he would fall...

Mark was confessing his sins to the priest one Saturday in Confession, and he said, without intending to, "Father, I'm just so frustrated with myself and my life. I do have a good life, but I can't seem to get my act together. And when I fall into sin I really start to feel guilty and struggle to come up with a plan that will work for me so that I can conquer this stuff!"

And the priest said to him, "It's not about your trying to solve your problem on your own. Christ is the one who will give you the grace to eventually transform yourself. But if you rely solely on your own resources you will get nowhere. The most important thing is to not give up hope. God's doing more for you than you actually realize. And I know this may sound strange, but Christ is actually to be found in the very center of that struggle you are going through. So don't give up and don't stop praying.

Don't stop having a relationship with Jesus and receiving the Sacraments. Christ is doing something for you that will make sense to you sometime later. In the meantime, persevere and put your trust in the truth that God knows what he's doing."

St. John the Baptist recognized who Jesus was the moment he saw him: "Behold the Lamb of God, who takes away the sins of the world." And his way of describing Jesus was to say, "he's the one that will free you from your sins". This is the primary purpose of Christ's mission.

We are asked to find Christ, too. But for us it's harder to do. Although Jesus might not appear to us in the flesh like he did to John the Baptist, he does reveal himself. And sometimes it's in ways that seem the very opposite of what we would expect. The revelation might come in the very heart of a struggle that we are experiencing. The very place where we think we are the farthest from Christ and what we are supposed to do, becomes the place where he is closest. So, don't despair. Keep asking for Jesus to help you. Bring your brokenness to the Lord, not the perfect plan.

Also, be mindful of this: Sometimes God does us a favor without us realizing it. Don't forget, we are all being purified of our old ways of acting and thinking so that we can live the life we were meant to live: a life united with Christ.

January 24: St. Francis de Sales, Bishop and Doctor of the Church (1567-1622)

Francis, the eldest of 13 children, was born into a family of nobility in France in 1567. His father sent him to study at the University of Paris. After six years, Francis was intellectually competent in many areas. Francis was also a skilled swordsman who enjoyed fencing, an expert horseman, and a superb dancer. Then Francis studied at the University of Padua and received a doctorate in civil and canon law. His father wanted him to marry, but Francis desired to be a priest. His father consented, and Francis was ordained to the priesthood in 1593.

Francis and his cousin Louis, who was also a priest, volunteered to work in Chablais, where religious wars were taking place. After four months, Louis became discouraged and left. Then Francis began to write and distribute a weekly essay, explaining some doctrines of faith. For two years, he and his friends had these essays printed. Francis preached with power and charm in simple, clear language. His gentleness and love drew many hearts to God. The majority of the Chablais inhabitants accepted the Catholic faith.

When Francis was appointed bishop of Geneva, he not only wrote for and encouraged priests, but he also took an interest in the candidates for priesthood. Francis even conducted the examinations to see if the candidates were fit for this vocation. He also trained laypeople to teach catechism. Francis often gave spiritual guidance to people.

In 1610, Francis helped Jane Frances de Chantal found the Visitation convent. He wrote a book called The Introduction to the Devout Life. It shows that everyone can grow in holiness. Among his other writings is the Treatise on the Love of God, a history of his own love for God. Francis was declared a Doctor of the Church and the patron of journalists and writers. Jan. 21: St. Agnes (c.291 - c304)

St. Agnes, is to be numbered among the most famous martyrs of Rome. When the Diocletian persecution was at its height, and when priests as well as laymen were apostatizing from the faith, Agnes, a girl of twelve, freely chose to die for Christ. When she was commanded to offer incense to false gods, she raised her hand to Christ and made the Sign of the Cross. When the heathens threatened to bind her hand and foot, she herself hastened to the place of torture as a bride to her wedding feast. Pain had no terror for her—although the fetters slipped from her small hands while even the pagan bystanders were moved to tears.

When the son of the Roman prefect offered to marry her, she replied: "The one to whom I am betrothed is Christ Whom the angels serve." When the executioner, who was to behead her, hesitated, she encouraged him with the words: "Strike, without fear, for the bride does her Spouse an injury if she makes Him wait". The name of "Agnes" means "lamb-life," and hence the lamb is the symbol of the modesty and innocence of the virgin-martyr.
