In Loving Memory of Peter Bruno
from Regina Bruno and Family

Greg turned off his TV in frustration. "That's it! I'm done with watching the news." To say that Greg was interested in politics was certainly an understatement. But lately he just couldn't take it anymore. He needed a break.

He was filled with worry about the future—the country's, the world's, and, more importantly, his own. He just marveled at how things were getting crazier and crazier. Just when you thought it couldn't get any worse, it did! There were the thoughts running through his mind as he walked up the stairs one night to go to bed.

The next day he was out for a walk with an old buddy of his, and he mentioned how he was feeling about all this 'stuff', and the challenges of the present situation. Joe, a retired deacon, and a pretty prayerful guy (Greg had always thought) said to him, "I just finished a biography of John XXIII, and there was this great insight into some of his thinking about how to approach a problem. It seems that when the Pope would meditate about what was going on in the world and how it was effecting the Church and his own personal life, he would always keep in mind this distinction: That there is human history, and then there is what he would call real (or true) history. He would remember that this true history is where the mysterious God is intervening in ways that we do not see.

"In other words", Joe said, "It comes down to a 'human interpretation' of events vs seeing events through God's eyes—or the way that God would want us to see them. It's an acknowledgement that God is much more in control of things than we are. We will eventually see what God is doing. When I keep reminding myself of this, I find that I calm down a bit and try not to let myself get too anxious, especially about what I have no control over.

The disciples on the road to Emmaus were filled with disappointment and maybe even frustration as they returned home. They were going back defeated. It wasn't until they encountered Christ that they realized that they had been going in the wrong direction. They also began to see that they were interpreting what had been happening incorrectly. Jesus showed them that everything that happened had to happen, so there was no need to turn their back on God's plan now.

These disciples had been 'in retreat' as if they had lost a battle. Jesus was saying that they needed to change direction and not go back to the old ways. As the disciples, so for each of us, on our journey of life.

I found this quote that I think can be very helpful for us:

"We judge things from a merely human standpoint, as they strike our senses and our human estimation. We fail to hold everything against the bright background of faith. Instead, we allow our emotions to dictate to us what is real and what is not. Far too easily we give way to our moods, our fears, our uneasy feelings."

Certainly something for all of us to think about. So, let me end this morning with these words from a homily by Pope Francis:

"The Gospel for today teaches us that two opposite directions are set before us in life: The path of those who let themselves be paralyzed by disappointments and trudge along sadly. Then there is the path of those who put Jesus and others before their own problems."

Journey through the Easter season in a unique and special way — through a Pilgrimage of Hope.

The SJN Parish Choir has assembled a prayerful collection of choral songs that center the listener on a pilgrimage of hope, meant to accompany silent prayer; listen online.

We pray that these musical offerings will bring rich depth to the silent contemplation of Christ's journey of life, death, resurrection, and the descent of the Holy Spirit.

The six-track album is available for $5 or a free-will donation through the distribution site bandcamp. Proceeds offset the costs of production and distribution.

Our final Hospitality Sunday for the season!

The Good Shepherd

I am the good shepherd who lays down his life for the sheep. I know mine and mine know me. This is why the Father loves me, because I lay down my life in order to take it up again. No one takes it from me, but I lay it down on my own.

Joseph of Nazareth

Celebrate the feast of Christ's foster father with even more joy and respect this year by watching a movie about him! Enter into the life of this great saint through the movie Joseph of Nazareth!

Catherine of Siena

Sigrid Undset's Catherine of Siena is critically acclaimed as one of the best biographies of this well-known and amazing fourteenth-century saint.

St. Louis de Montfort

Dr. John Sehorn joins Taylor Kemp to discuss the life of St. Louis de Montfort. Born in western France, St. Louis had a great love for Mary and Rosary. His work "True Devotion to Mary" helps Catholics grow in their relationship with Jesus through his Mother, Mary.

Apr. 28: St. Louis de Montfort, Priest (1673-1716)

St. Louis de Montfort was a French priest devoted to preaching about the rosary and other devotions to the Blessed Virgin Mary. He founded three religious congregations: the Company of Mary, the Daughters of Wisdom, and the Brothers of Saint Gabriel. St. Louis de Montfort is most known for his writings, both spiritual works and poetry. Two of his most notable works are Secret of the Rosary and True Devotion to Mary, both of which have left a lasting impact on many Catholic faithful. Pope John Paul II took the ecclesiastical motto "Totus Tuus" based on the Marian devotion he modeled after St. Louis de Montfort.

April 29: St. Catherine of Siena, Virgin and Doctor of the Church (1347-1380)

The value Saint Catherine of Siena makes central in her short life and which sounds clearly and consistently through her experience is complete surrender to Christ. What is most impressive about her is that she learns to view her surrender to her Lord as a goal to be reached through time.

She was the 23rd child of Jacopo and Lapa Benincasa and grew up as an intelligent, cheerful, and intensely religious person. Catherine disappointed her mother by cutting off her hair as a protest against being overly encouraged to improve her appearance in order to attract a husband. Her father ordered her to be left in peace, and she was given a room of her own for prayer and meditation.

Saint Catherine of Siena entered the Dominican Third Order at 18 and spent the next three years in seclusion, prayer, and austerity. Gradually, a group of followers gathered around her—men and women, priests and religious. An active public apostolate grew out of her contemplative life. Her letters, mostly for spiritual instruction and encouragement of her followers, began to take more and more note of public affairs.

Opposition and slander resulted from her mixing fearlessly with the world and speaking with the candor and authority of one completely committed to Christ. She was cleared of all charges at the Dominican General Chapter of 1374.

Her public influence reached great heights because of her evident holiness, her membership in the Dominican Third Order, and the deep impression she made on the pope. She worked tirelessly for the crusade against the Turks and for peace between Florence and the pope.

In 1378, the Great Schism began, splitting the allegiance of Christendom between two, then three, popes and putting even saints on opposing sides. Saint Catherine of Siena spent the last two years of her life in Rome, in prayer and pleading on behalf of the cause of Pope Urban VI and the unity of the Church. She offered herself as a victim for the Church in its agony. She died surrounded by her “children” and was canonized in 1461.

Saint Catherine of Siena ranks high among the mystics and spiritual writers of the Church. In 1939, she and Francis of Assisi were declared co-patrons of Italy. Pope Paul VI named her and Teresa of Avila doctors of the Church in 1970. Her spiritual testament is found in The Dialogue.
