I'd like to share a thought with you about the Necessity of the Cross. But first, let's contemplate once again Jesus' words to us from

Matthew's Gospel: "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me. For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will find it."

And now here's that thought that I mentioned when I started:

What matters most is not the beginning or the middle of a process but the end to which it leads, and if initial losing leads to final finding while saving now leads to losing in the end, then we must bravely undertake the road of present loss.

This is a tricky statement and requires going over again, more slowly. But when we read it carefully it contains great wisdom and gets to the very heart of the cross and how a person can find fullness of life. From the perspective of faith what Jesus is asking for is self-denial, embracing the Cross, and the throwing away of one's life like a seed for his sake. This is pretty heady stuff!!

Let me clarify right away the idea of throwing away one's life. Jesus isn't asking to waste your life by making bad decisions or getting caught up in harmful things. Notice he says "like a seed"—throw your life away like a seed for his sake. That's quite a different thing.

What Jesus is offering in all of this is a strategy for "saving" one's life. And these words can apply to any circumstance in life a person might be going through. These words help us to understand the "freeing power" that the cross can have for us, as strange as this may sound.

What we have to do is give up being self-willed and find our "God-willed self". It's only in embracing God's will and abandoning self-will that we can be saved. To stay locked in self-will, insisting on our way or the highway is to become stagnant. Sometimes the Lord allows things to be broken apart so that he can start to change us and free us from the earthly "straightjacket" that we have made for ourselves. So, just as Jesus did with his Father, we are asked to abandon our lives into Jesus' hands. What a risky business this seems at first.

So, when we become angry at difficult circumstances that we are forced to deal with, or if we are mourning our sense of loss whether for a loved one or because our life is no longer what it used to be; when we insist on clinging to the past or can never deal with being told "no", we are probably feeding the "self-willed self" instead of the "God-willed self".

Notice what happened when Peter, in a very authoritative way, denied what Jesus just said about the cross and how he had to suffer and die. Jesus says, "Get behind me, Satan." In other words, don't allow yourself to get ahead of God. And we often do the same thing, suggesting that we know better than God and that we understand our circumstances better than the Almighty. Yet God is quite capable of structuring every minute of our lives the best way. In other words, our lack of trust makes us want to play the mature adult before God's omniscience, and we easily forget that the Kingdom of God belongs to the childlike!

So, if initial losing leads to final finding while saving now leads to losing in the end, then we must bravely undertake the road of present loss.

Sep. 8: The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary

Today, the Church celebrates the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Her Nativity is important because she was prepared, from her conception, to be the one who would bear the Savior of the World, Our Lord Jesus Christ. Celebrating her birthday reminds us of the profound gift the Father gave us in his Son, Jesus. Her obedience and love for the Father led to our salvation. "She [Mary] is the flower of the field from whom bloomed the precious lily of the valley."

-St. Augustine catholicapostolatecenter.org

Sep. 9: Saint Claver

St. Peter Claver was a Spanish missionary and member of the Society of Jesus. He lived from 1580 to 1654. After completing his university studies, he joined the Jesuits and volunteered to be sent to the New World. In what is now Colombia, Claver would go the wharf and minister to African slaves, who he saw as fellow Christians. In addition to ministering to slaves at the port, he would travel the country offering spiritual consolation to them. He also ministered to traders, tourists, and even condemned criminals in the New World. St. Peter Claver is the patron saint of race relations, seafarers, and Colombia.

Lord,

You are rich in mercy and call us to reflect your love in our relationships.

Help us to forgive as you forgive, and to walk in the freedom of your grace.

Open our hearts to recognize the ways in which we have wounded our relationship with you and grant us the humility to seek your mercy.

May we never fear the Sacrament of Reconciliation but embrace it as a gift of your love.

Transform our hearts, Lord, that we may live in the fullness of your grace.

Amen.
